DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-7, 9-15, 17, 20, 21, 22, 23-25, and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-7, 9-15, 17, 20, 21, 22, 23-25, and 27 contain the trademark/trade name Bluetooth. Where a trademark or trade name is used in a claim as a limitation to identify or describe a particular material or product, the claim does not comply with the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. See Ex parte Simpson, 218 USPQ 1020 (Bd. App. 1982). The claim scope is uncertain since the trademark or trade name cannot be used properly to identify any particular material or product. A trademark or trade name is used to identify a source of goods, and not the goods themselves. Thus, a trademark or trade name does not identify or describe the goods associated with the trademark or trade name. In the present case, the trademark/trade name is used to identify/describe a standard for wireless transmission and, accordingly, the identification/description is indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1 through 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McCarthy et al., 6477464, in view of Peterzell et al., 2003/0040292.

5. McCarthy et al. disclose a GPS antenna(12'); a GPS receiver(14') coupled to the antenna that includes a synthesizer(inherent); a bluetooth antenna and transceiver with synthesizer(inherent) on lines 34-59, on column 2; one module(17) holding the GPS receiver, bluetooth receiver and antenna; the GPS antenna is mounted on the module in figure 2; a rear view mirror support the module in figure 2; the bluetooth transceiver receives data from the GPS receiver and transmits the data on lines 42-52, on column 2 and on lines 23-57, on column 5 and the incorporated by reference disclosures in that section, specifically application 09/793002, now patent 6690268; the bluetooth transceiver receives data from at least one vehicle sensor and transmits the data on lines 23-57, on column 5 and the incorporated by reference disclosures in that section; and the data is transmitted to a portable computing device selected from one of a PDA, wireless telephones, and a laptop, for display on lines 48-67, on column 3.

McCarthy et al. do not disclose a reference oscillator providing signals to both the GPS receiver synthesizer and bluetooth transceiver synthesizer; and a dual SAW filter package in the module, signals from both antennae being filtered through the SAW filter package. Peterzell et al. teach a reference oscillator providing signals to both the GPS receiver synthesizer and bluetooth transceiver synthesizer in paragraph 63; and a dual SAW filter package in the module, signals from both antennae being filtered through the SAW filter package(70). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the oscillator and SAW filter of Peterzell et al. in the invention of McCarthey et al. because such modification would provide for a less expensive construction through reducing current needs and board area by eliminating the need for more than one oscillator as disclosed by Peterzell et al. in paragraph 83. Using a SAW filter is a design choice. SAW filters were well known in the art at the time the invention was made because of their bandpass filter shape factors.
